

“CESSNA IN THE CITY”

Just five days until Aeromil Pacific lands a Cessna 172 in the centre of Sydney.

Talking about Cessna in the City, Steve Padgett Aeromil Pacific Managing Director commented, “we want to do something special, a little different to what you would normally see in the centre of Sydney. We are turning Martin Place into a runway, right down to the piano keys, runway numbers, centre line and markings, with the latest glass cockpit Cessna 172 parked at the end of the runway”.

Flying and aviation will be showcased inside the marquee “hangar”, featuring a Cessna 182 flight simulator and a new Garmin G1000 glass-cockpit training kiosk. Visitors will take the controls of the flight simulator and see inside an actual aircraft cockpit with new generation glass screen avionics, powered-up, ready for flight. Guests will also have the opportunity to talk to aviation experts about becoming a pilot, training, owning and operating all types of aircraft, purchase options, charter, finance and insurance.

Dick Smith AO, one of Australia’s great aviators, will be a special guest at the event on Thursday, 29 July at 12:30pm. Making the announcement Steve Padgett went on to say “Dick Smith is a national treasure, he has done so much for aviation in this country and he shares our love of flying”. The Sydney City area will also, for the first time, see the debut of The Flying Femme Fatales, Aeromil Pacific’s flying ambassadors, roving the CBD to extend an invitation to join Aeromil Pacific in Martin Place.

During the three day special aviation event, there will be an opportunity to literally Live The Dream of owning and flying your own aircraft with a special Martin Place offer on the world’s best selling and most flown aircraft, the Cessna 172, including: discounted purchase price, pilot training, aircraft insurance from QBE, 500 litres of fuel from Shell Aviation, aircraft maintenance from Aeromil Pacific, aircraft hangarage and Cessna merchandise.
